The FBI estimates that over 950,000 motor vehicles were stolen in 2008 in the US — that equates to 2602 cars per day or 1.8 cars ever single minute! That means you have a 1 in 245 chance of getting your car stolen and, if you include simple car related thefts like, stereos, tires, personal property and alike, there is even a higher likelihood that you will be a victim of a vehicle crime. Why take a chance, start protecting your property now with the DEFENDER – the Iron Curtain of Vehicle Security Systems.

The DEFENDER is stylish and compact which makes it easy to position on a visor or dash board or it can be concealed from view. This base unit is the “Nerve Center” that detects any malicious activity and when it does it sends a wireless signal to a 140 decibel siren that is placed under the hood of your car.

Now the DEFENDER is easily controlled via its stylish wireless 2-way FM remote control. The remote control arms, disarms and continually monitors the status of the device. If the DEFENDER is set off due to an attempted tampering of your vehicle you are alerted with intermittent beeps, vibrations and flashing lights via the remote. This little transmitter is so powerful it can communicate with your vehicle up to a half mile away.
